Feb 2, 2019

Dr. Kiran K. Burla has received medical director certification from the American Board of Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine, a national certification body.

Medical directors of senior health communities are responsible for the medical care of residents. Studies show that long-term care facilities with certified medical directors have improved quality of care.

Dr. Burla is medical director at Eastgate Manor and Timbers of Jasper and attending physician at Prairie Village and Good Samaritan Home and Rehabilitation Center. All four of these senior health centers are operated by American Senior Communities, which operates senior health and living centers throughout Indiana and in Louisville.

Dr. Burla has been serving residents in nursing homes in the Washington area for the past seven years. He is a medical doctor, board certified in internal medicine and pediatrics and has been recognized as a fellow of the American College of Physicians and the American Academy of Pediatrics.
